

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for heat treatment of coatings for application to metal surfaces wherein a ceramic is positioned adjacent to the coating to be treated and the ceramic is exposed to a 5 microwave beam having a predetermined frequency and power density which are sufficient to heat the ceramic to a desired temperature whereby the coating is adhered to an applied metal surface without temperature degradation of the metal.